

Communications

Expertly developed, managed and executed engagement guarantees successful projects. We will help you finish on time, within budget and your reputation maintained.

CNC Project Management (CNC) will work with you, our public and private sector clients to bring assignments to life. Through big-picture strategy development, detailed planning and management and meaningful community engagement we can be there every step of the way. We help at critical junctions or end-to-end to build strong relationships between our clients, regulators and their communities. Experts at navigating tricky stakeholder and political landscapes, we aim to leave our clients with greater stakeholder trust and an improved social license.

CNC is home to a high-performing team of communications, stakeholder engagement and government relations professionals. Our multi-skilled consultants have a strong track record in developing and delivering effective communications programs for large, complex and sensitive projects. We offer director level professionals through to junior consultants to make sure our clients receive best value for the work required.

Growth through mutual success

Our strengths:

- People - Success relies on our people communicating effectively with all of your stakeholders. This takes experience, passion and knowledge of the sectors we operate in.
- Integration - Communication is critical to any change management activity or project. We embed staff into your company or project team and partner to deliver consistent and quality communications.
- Timeliness - Communicating the right message at the right time can amplify an organisations reputation. Failure to communicate at the right time, can damage an organisations and project reputation. We write the right content to meet tight deadlines.
- Alignment - It's your reputation on the line. We align with our client's corporate image and communication guidelines, developing meaningful strategies that meet brand promises and business objectives.
- Education - We add value. We are communications experts that bring best practice communications and advice to our clients on managing politically sensitive projects.
